Isa 32:8 But the noble man
devises noble plans; And by noble plans he stands.

“For the Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost.”

FACILITATING THE RULE AND REIGN OF JESUS IN N. CAMEROON

Much time has passed since I communicated with you, and much has happened. Our focus has been on two teenagers who came to live with us because of continuing physical and verbal abuse at home. These two girls said they wanted “a new start”. They had to endure much change, homes, schools, parenting, etc. The emotional drain of giving them everything we had led us to the decision to not go to Africa this fall.

Despite our best efforts and theirs, we could not endure the situation and decided to mutually disengage. They now live back with their mother, and we have gone back to our lives. The Lord taught me at least one major lesson through it all. The revelation came when we realized they could not release the old. Old relationships, behavior, and values. Does that sound familiar? Just like the Israelites upon departure from Egypt. They could not release the old and embrace the new. Why? Because of unbelief.

The sky was the limit for the girls but they could not receive and believe in a good God. Now, nobody misses what they never had, so their transition back to the old will be smooth. Now here is the lesson from the Lord for me. “D, you are like the girls. Always holding onto the old and familiar fleshly patterns of the world, unbelieving of my goodness and the blessings I want to release to you. But I could not, because you would not.” Ouch. God’s chastisement is always for our good. Okay, easily remedied in Jesus. Just exchange my thinking. Thank you God for the lesson and for the opportunity to help.

Speaking of opportunities we have a huge one in Cameroon. M, E, P, E, and others have already scoped out three northern locations in Cameroon in which to hold evangelism conferences followed by an evening outreach to a village in the area. The vision is to reach every muslim village in northern Cameroon by 2015. The local assets are excited about the vision and joining with us and the Holy Spirit of course, to achieve victory.

In M’s most recent report, he states: At M, we met Pastor E at his base waiting for us. It is great to meet with someone who agrees with your vision. E was very happy. So we greeted each other embracing one another. There then Rev. E, introduced me to him. He said he knew me that he had met me at a mission conference in M.” There are many unreached ethnic groups in the area of interest, These people groups are M, F, G, T, and M in Y. The riches of the harvest are calling out to us big time. You can sense the excitement and the expectation of victory.

Why did God keep me here? Remember He is good and He is after His own glory. Given that statement, I would say it could be the following: 1) He is going to do something so big

He doesn’t want anyone else to get the credit (namely me), 2) He wants the men to see they can do this without me, 3) He is protecting me from the raging jihadists. Least likely number 3, because He can send us into a fire and not allow us to get burned, so I imagine it is 1) and/or 2).

I want to especially thank my financial and prayer partners. It is by your generous and faithful participation that these opportunities are made a reality. Our faith and obedience working together with your love, and powered by the Holy Spirit and the Word of God. Please understand that the work and investment opportunities continue when I am not there physically. For instance, the men visited Z where we need to rebuild the fallen church with cement blocks because of the constant flooding and erosion issues. That takes investors who have a heart to meet this need.
